DELICIA A. C. NINE DISPLAYED WONDERFUL TALENT AT FAIR GROUNDS SUNDAY AFTERNOON—FANS ALL PLEASED

The Delicia A. C. nine handed our local boys a 10 to 4 lacing Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds. Clark's "shimmy Ball" got the best of him, and he was forced to take himself out as he was manager of the team. Bob Hull went in to succeed Clark, but the Delicia team was so far advanced in score that it was a rather hard battle to catch up.

The local boys had their off-day, nevertheless they put up a hard fight. "Lowie" Hull tried hard to throw them out at second—he even threw the mark and ball both at the same time. If it hadn't been for the ump. catching the mask, he might have caught the runner at second.

The Delicia A. C. have some stars with them all right. Smith, 1st baseman, played in the International League at Buffalo, and Garrison, lately refused an offer with the Big leaguers. They are all athletes, not only ball stars, but have with them Ferris who said that he had a 148-lb. welterweight by the name of "Kid" French, who was anxious to get a crack at Joe Thomas, Binghamton's first ward battler. Battling Rudy, a 135-pound mit artist, would also like to get a crack at Billy Neil, the boy who battled Billy Hollc at the E. J. A. A. mit carnival. Rudy also issues a challenge to Neil for a bout.

These boys also play foot ball and basket ball. It's no wonder they defeated our boys, as they are playing constantly. Manager Ferris said they only do it for the sport—we believe him.

Manager Clark announced that the Franklinville nine will again appear at the Fair Grounds next Sunday, and it is expected that there will be a large crowd as the fans know they will see another good game—come out and see help a good cause along.

VALUABLE PRIZES OFFERED AT McKEAN COUNTY FAIR

William M. Farnum, sales agent for the Norwich Carbonate of Lime, has been awarding prizes for the past few years on the best farm products grown by the use of this lime, but this year he is awarding a larger number than ever. The exhibits and prizes are as follows:

Best Six Stalks of Corn, with or without ears, 1st 3 tons, 2nd 2 tons.

Best Bundle Oats, 1st 3 tons, 2nd 2 tons.

Best Bundle Timothy, 1st 3 tons, 2nd 2 tons.

Every farmer who has been using this carbonate of lime should select some of each of the above and compete for these prizes because the sum total of these prizes would be quite a large car of lime. The farmers have not appreciated the value of these prizes heretofore, and this year it is hoped that many farmers will compete for the above prizes. Selection especially of the clovers and timothy, should be done at once.

—Misses Vera and Theo Freeman gave a dinner party last evening—eight couple were present.

HON. FREDERICK RASMUSSEN

WILL ADDRESS McKEAN COUNTY FARM BUREAU AND GRANGE PICNIC

Honorable Frederick Rasmussen, Secretary of Agriculture of Harrisburg, will address the McKean County Farm Bureau and Grange Picnic at Turtle Point Tuesday, August 10.

When Governor Sproul entered upon his administration, he looked far and wide for a man who could best fill the office of Secretary of Agriculture of Pennsylvania, and, after sufficient investigation, learned that the present Honorable Frederick Rasmussen was best suited, due to his experience as well as training, to assist the farmers of Pennsylvania to solve their many problems.

Honorable Frederick Rasmussen had in his early training the experience of the Danish farmer, was then educated in an agricultural college, after which time valuable experiences were gained through his good work in the New England as well as the South Central States. At the time of his appointment he was connected with the Pennsylvania State College, and since that time has re-organided the Agricultural Department of Harrisburg. Every farmer of McKean County should put forth a great deal of effort to hear what this man has to say.

BIG PREMIUMS

Wm. M. Farnham, sales agent for Norwich Carbonate of Lime, offers three tons of lime as first premium, and two tons as second, for the best bundle of Mammoth, Alsike and Sweet Clover, on display at the fair. Also the same on the best bundle of oats, timothy and six stalks of corn. These prizes are certainly worth an effort to secure. In the past they have not been competed for as such a premium would warrant.

Bishop Overs To Visit City

In Smethport Sunday—Bishop Preached Both Morning and Evening at St. Luke's Church—Host of Local Admirers Look Forward Eagerly to Return of Well Beloved Former Rector.

Bradford Pa., July 27.—Right Rev. Walter H. Overs, Ph. D., Bishop of Liberia, probably will revisit Bradford Tuesday or Wednesday. The Bishop was in Smethport yesterday, preaching both in the morning and in the evening at St. Luke's Church. Large congregations were on hand at both services. He informed The Era over the telephone last night that he hoped to be in Bradford Tuesday or Wednesday.

As recently announced in The Era, Bishop Overs landed in New York July 3 last, on his first visit to America since he took charge of his African diocese. He has been with his family in Jamestown most of the time since his arrival.

Bishop Overs' visit to this city, where for a number of years he was rector of the Church of the Ascension is being awaited with eager anticipation by his host of friends and admirers. The Bishop left Bradford late last December and sailed for Liberia January 3.

Throughout the first half year of his bishopric, Dr. Overs has been busy laying the foundation of a great work of civilization and Christianization, not only in Liberia proper, but in the great "hinterland" where savagery still reigns. A most interesting account of some of his experiences was given in a letter from Bishop Overs to The Era, a few months ago.—Era.

PENN. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR AND INDUSTRY

Harrisburgh, Pa., July 24.—Commissioner Clifford B. Connelley, of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, today issued a report showing this state's industrial workers participated in 62 labor disputes during June. According to figures compiled in the Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration, 19 new strikes started last month. The other 47 strikes were in progress when the month opened. During May, there were 50 labor disturbances, and in April, 107 similar controversies arose in the state.

The 62 disputes in June involved employees of 11 different classes of industry. Ten new strikes were recorded in the metal trades, eight of which occurred in York County. In the building trades, there were three new strikes; in clothing manufacturers, one; in the lumber business, one; in textiles, one, and in public service, three.

The largest number of new strikes last month developed in York County, where eight were reported. Philadelphia had seven new strikes during June, and Blair, Franklin, Lackawanna and Northampton counties had one each.

Representatives of the Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration tried to make settlements in 47 of the 62 strikes, and they successfully adjusted differences in nine cases.

The house party was given in honor of Miss Jane Van Dyke and Miss Catherine Pomeroy who celebrated their birthday Sunday.

Bucktail Post Promises Greatest Celebration

GRAND PARADE BY MEN IN UNIFORM

GREATEST EVENTS EVER STAGED IN SMETHPORT BY ANY ORGANIZATION WILL BE WITNESSED HERE AUGUST 18 AND 19

If the plans now being worked out will but materialize, Bucktail Post of the American Legion promises Smethport the greatest celebration of its history for August 18 and 19, when the World War ex-service men of McKean County will get together for what is believed to be the first event of its kind in the country—a real reunion and convention. The local Post has taken a great load upon itself in thus blazing the way for a new type of annual affair, but it feels confident that with the backing Smethport always gives anything that concerns the name of the community in matters of hospitality, it will set a high mark for similar conventions in later years.

During the past week delegations of boosters from the local Post visited the Ludlow, Kane and Port Allegany posts and met in each case assurances of the heartiest possible cooperation; all posts are planning on attending as nearly as possible in a body and on entering every form of competition provided. This week Bradford will be called upon and there is every reason to believe in a similar response from that quarter.

Several notices have appeared in these columns heretofore relative to various plans and ideas which were meeting with consideration at the hands of the post, and the tentative program of the two-days' program as it now stands, gives indication that the visiting soldier and civilian will be on the jump every minute. It is safe to say, that aside from the fun provided at such a celebration, the affair will be decidedly educational to the average citizen of the county who has had no opportunity to witness things military. The big parade of men in uniform, which should show fully a thousand men, will be a sight for this town; then too, there is planned an exhibition of war trophies which will be very enlightening; and as a fitting climax for the festivities, it is hoped that it will be possible to hold, as the last thing on the program, what is undoubtedly the finest formation in military life—"retreat."

To go on and specify definitely what may be expected would be to give away too many as yet "state" secrets; from time to time further light will be shed on these matters. It is not too much to say, however, that there are to be two baseball games between Legion Posts in the county, a big inter-Post trackmeet, free dances and ox-roast to soldiers in uniform, aeroplane flights, concerts by a big military band, a speech by the newly-elected state commander of the Legion, or in case he is unable to attend, by the Junior Commander, who is in charge of the work of the Legion in the western end of the state. Needless to say, there will be a large number of surprises which will be sprung at the proper time.

A little later announcement will be made by the Post as to the part the community is asked to play in all this; it is not inconsiderable, and yet the Bucktails have the assurance that Smethport has yet to fall down on any proposition which it has tackled.

However, as a fitting conclusion, mention should be made of the fact that the campaign for finances for the convention has already been started. The Post Finance Officer is in general charge of this important side of the celebration, but the active collection of funds is in the hands of Mr. J. L. Morrison. Already a fairly satisfactory amount has been furnished by citizens, but it is planned to more than triple this sum. Don't wait to be called on, give your check to either Mr. Morrison or Mr. Albert Johnson at the Hamlin Bank.

ELISHA K. KANE ON NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Lincoln, Neb., July 27.—Those chosen for membership on the new Prohibition national committee includes Francis E. Baldwin, Mrs. Mamie Colvin, for New York; Pennsylvania, Dr. B. E. P. Prugh, Elisha K. Kane.

Mr. Kane has always taken a prominent part in the activities of the Prohibition party. He has been delegate to the national convention from his district several times in past years and has also been at various times a delegate-at-large. That he is given a berth in the national committee comes as no surprise to his many friends in this vicinty.

Francis E. Baldwin is also well known in this city. He is president of the Thatcher Manufacturing company and makes frequent trips from his home in Elmira, N. Y., to Kane. He has a large number of acquaintances here.—Kane Republican.

GREAT STORM FRIDAY NIGHT AT BUFFALO

A severe wind and rain storm struck Buffalo Friday evening. Various sections of the city were flooded.

Half a dozen places were struck by lightning, and small fires caused.

Only one man was injured and he not directly by the storm, he was pushed through a street car window and cut.

The storm seriously affected the railroads, all trains from the south were late.

Hornell was also hard hit by the storm. Many buildings were unroofed, and several persons struck by lightning.

Emerson's Ideal.

In his immortal and inspiring essay on "Self-reliance," Ralph Waldo Emerson spoke in terms of confidence of the boy who "Farms, teams it, teaches school, studies law, edits a newspaper, goes to Congress, and, like a cat, always lights on his feet." Such a man is Warren G. Harding who has been nominated by the Republicans for President of the United States. He has had all these varied experiences and more, and has always lighted on his feet.

The Tammany Wink

Former Congressman Ansberry, who placed the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt in nomination for the vice presidency at the San Francisco convention admits that he first went to Boss Murphy of Tammany Hall and got his consent. "Murphy gave a wink and a nod," says the story of the meetingf, "and that meant volumes to Ansberry." And it is with winks and nods from Murphy that the government of the United States would be run for the next four years if Cox and Roosevelt should be put in nominal charge of affairs.

One of the 39

Senator Harding was one of the original 39 senators who attached their signatures to the round robin of March 4, 1919, decreeing that the league of nations in the form proposed by the President should not be adopted by the United States. He held to that declaration throughout the treaty fight, and by speech and vote assisted in the emphatic repudiation of the covenant by the Senate Republicans. Mr. Harding's endorsement of the Second Declaration of Independence, and his steadfast adherence to its principles, is sufficient announcement to the people of the brand of Americanism that will dominate our foreign relations once he has entered the White House.

Billion for Sugar-Bund

"If the government of the United States in its need for revenue to maintain itself and meet the extravagant expenditure of the war had dared to put a consumption tax of two cents per pound on a recognized necessity like sugar, it would have been condemned and the administration perpetrating the outrage would have been defeated at the first election," declared Representative Edward E. Browne of Wisconsin, recently. "But," said Mr. Browne, "President Wilson has made it possible for the black-flag sugar profiteers to levy a tax not of two cents, but of over 10 cents on each pound of sugar consumed, a tax amounting to $1,012,000,000 on the people of the United States."

A Star to Follow

Washington, D. C., July 29.—Harding's instructions to the writers on his paper are quoted by the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., as evidence of the clean and sane thinking which have characterized the Republican candidate in private life:

"Harding has not only been a life-long publisher, but one creditable to the profession. His idea of newspaper ethics is set forth in a circular of instructions given to every reporter employed on the paper. One of the significant instructions contained in the circular is the following:

"'There is good is everybody. Bring out the good in everybody, and never needlessly hurt the feelings of anybody.'

"No yellow journal in that. And be it said to the credit of the people of Marion, they gave cordial support to a paper with such an ideal. Undoubtedly, if Mr. Harding had been willing to degrade his paper to sensationalism, he could have sold a few additional copies of his paper. He could have gradually cultivated a taste for sensationalism in his community. By hurting the feelings of a few unfortunate or misguided people, he could have furnished 'syicy' reading for the buyers of his paper. But, fortunately for the community, for journalism, and for him, he pursued no such course, and the community showed its high ideals by making his paper a great success.

"Here is the full set of instructions given by Harding to writers on the Marion Star for their guidance:

"'Remember there are two sides to every question. Get them both.

"'Be truthful. Get the facts.

"'Mistakes are inevitable, but strive for accuracy. I would rather have one story exactly right than a hundred half wrong.

"'Be decent, be fair, be generous.

"'There's good in everybody. Bring out the good in everybody, and never needlessly hurt the feelings of anybody.

"'In reporting a political gathering, give the facts, tell the story as it is, not as you would like to have it. Treat all parties alike.

"'Treat all religious matters reverently.

"'If it can possibly be avoided never bring ignominy to an innocent man or child in telling of the misdeeds or misfortunes of a relative.

"'Don't wait to be asked, but do it without asking, and, above all, be clean and never let a dirty word or suggestive story get into type.

"'I want this paper so conducted that it can go into any home without destroying the innocence of any child.'

"It is safe to say that the general principles adopted for the newspaper over which he had control would be followed so far as applicable in the administration of the affairs of government. As he was not a sensationalist as editor of a newspaper, neither would he be a muck-raker as President. He would remember that there are two sides to every question and would get both sides before reaching a decision."

Captain Melville Gillett, of Smethport, McKean County, who has the distinction of being the first Pennsylvanian to start out to go as a delegate to Chicago to aid in the nomination of Harding for President had the supreme satisfaction of acting in the place of General Atterbury as the Keystone State's representative on the notification committee at Senator Harding's Buckeye State home.

Captain Gillett is a former resident of Ohio and a personal friend of Senator Harding. When he entered the National Delegate race he was confronted with a combination of regular party organization men pledged to the election of A. H. Gaffney, of Kane, McKean County, a well-known manufacturer, and Harry B. Scott, of Phillipsburg, Center County, a former member of the State House of Representatives.

Then the General Wood boomers got busy, especially in Western Pennsylvania and the logical thing for Gillett to do, he finally concluded was to join in that procession as the Harding sentiment in the district was unorganized and he knew that if he ran as free lance he was certain to be snowed under.

The outcome was the defeat of the two Old Guard candidates and the election of Captain Gillett and Theodore Davis Boal, of Boalsburg, both committed to General Wood as second choice after Sproul.

Gillett, while he joyfully saw his old friend Harding go ing over the top a winner manfully stood by his pledge. When he was asked by W. Harry Baker, secretary of the delegation, how he wanted to be recorded as voting on the final ballot, he promptly responded "For General Leonard Wood."—Phila. Inquirer.

HAND ACROSS THE SEA

Great Britain has restored her foreign trade to such an ervent that her balance is now on practically a pre war basis. But that is the situation so far as the world at large is concerned. She is still increasing her debt to the United States.

HARDING SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE A NEW KEYNOTE

"HOLD HERITAGE AMERICAN NATIONALITY UNIMPAIRED"

Advocates Party Responsibility as Distinguished From Dictatorial and Autocratic Personal Rule—In Referring to League of Nations, Says We Do Not Mean to Shun a Single Responsibility of This Republic to World Civilization—Favors Protective Tariff, Merchant Marine, a Small Army, Woman Suffrage and National Budget.

Marion, O.—(Special.)—Warren G. Harding was officially notified here of his nomination as the Republican candidate for the presidency. His speech of acceptance is, in part, as follows:

Chr[illegible]odge, members of Notifi[illegible]ee, members of National [illegible]lies and gentlemen: The [illegible]h you have formally con[illegible]s to me a realization of [illegible]ility which is not underesti[illegible] It is a supreme task to inter[illegible] the covenant of a great political party, the activities of which are so woven into the history of this republic, and a very sacred and solemn undertaking to utter the faith and aspirations of the many millions who adhere to that party. The party platform has charted the way, yet, somehow, we have come to expect that interpretation which voices the faith of nominees who must assume specific tasks.

Let me be understood clearly from the very beginning. I believe in party sponsorship in government. I believe in party government as distinguished from personal government, individual, dictatorial, autocratic or what not.

No man is big enough to run this great republic. There never has been one. Such domination was never intended. Tranquillity, stability, dependability—all are assured in party sponsorship, and we mean to renew the assurances which were needed in the cataclysmal war.

Our first committal is the restoration of representative popular government, under the constitution, through the agency of the Republican party. Our vision includes more than a chief executive, we believe in a cabinet of highest capacity, equal to the responsibilities which our system contemplates, in whose councils the vice president, second official of the republic, shall be asked to participate. The same vision includes a cordial understanding and co-ordinated activities with a house of Congress, fresh from the people, voicing the convictions which members bring from direct contact with the electorate, and cordial co-operation along with the restored functions of the senate, fit to be the greatest deliberative body of the world.

International Relationship.

It is not difficult, Chairman Lodge, to make ourselves clear on the question of international relationship. We Republicans of the senate, conscious of our solemn oaths and mindful of our constitutional obligations, when we saw the structure of a world super-government taking visionary form, joined in a becoming warning of our devotion to this republic. If the torch of constitutionalism had not been dimmed, the delayed peace of the world and the tragedy of disappointment and Europe's misunderstanding of America easily might have been avoided. The Republicans of the senate halted the barter of independent American eminence and influence, which it was proposed to exchange for an obscure and unequal place in the merged government of the world. Our party means to hold the heritage of American nationality unimpaired and unsurrendered.

The world will not misconstrue. We do not mean to hold aloof. We do not mean to shun a single responsibility of this republic to world civilization. There is no hate in the American heart. We have no envy, no suspicion, no aversion for any people in the world. We hold to our rights, and mean to defend, aye, we mean to sustain the rights of this nation and our citizens alike, everywhere under the shining sun. Yet there is the concord of amity and sympathy and fraternity in every resolution. There is a genuine aspiration in every American breast for a tranquil friendship with all the world.

One may readily sense the conscience of our America. I am sure I understand the purpose of the dominant group of the senate. We were not seeking to defeat a world aspiration, we were resolved to safeguard America. We were resolved then, even as we are today, and will be tomorrow, to preserve this free and independent republic.

In the call of the conscience of America is peace, peace that closes the gaping wound of world war, and silences the impassioned voices of international envy and distrust. Heeding this call and knowing as I do the disposition of the Congress, I promise you, formal and effective peace so quickly as a Republican Congress can pass its declaration for a Republican executive to sign.

It is better to be the free and disinterested agent of international justice and advancing civilization, with the covenant of conscience, than be shackled by a written compact which surrenders our freedom of action and gives to a military alliance the right to proclaim America's duty to the world. No surrender of rights to a world council or its military alliance, no assumed mandatory however appealing, ever shall summon the sons of this republic to war. Their supreme sacrifice shall only be asked for America and its call of honor. There is a sanctity in that right we will not delegate.

Leaving America Independent.

Disposed as we are, the way is very simple. Let the failure attending assumption, obstinacy, impracticability and delay be recognized, and let us find the big, practical, unselfish way to do our part, neither covetous because of ambition nor hesitant through fear, but ready to serve ourselves, humanity and God. With a senate advising as the constitution contemplates, I would hopefully approach the nations of Europe and of the earth, proposing that understanding which makes us a willing participant in the consecration of nations to a new relationship, to commit the moral forces of the world, America included, to peace and international justice, still leaving America free, independent and self-reliant, but offering friendship to all the world.

It is folly to close our eyes to outstanding facts. Humanity is restive, much of the world is in revolution, the agents of discord and destruction have wrought their tragedy in pathetic Russia, have lighted their torches among other peoples, and hope to see America as a part of the great Red conflagration. Ours is the temple of liberty under the law, and it is ours to call the Sons of Opportunity to its defense. America must not only save herself, but ours must be the appealing voice to sober the world.

It must be understood that toil alone makes for accomplishment and advancement, and righteous possession is the reward of toil; and its incentive. There is no progress except in the stimulus of competition.

The chief trouble today is that the world war wrought the destruction of healthful competition, left our storehouses empty, and there is a minimum production when our need is maximum. Maximums, not minimums, is the call of America. It isn't a new story, because war never fails to leave depleted storehouses and always impairs the efficiency of production. War also establishes its higher standards for wages, and they abide. I wish the higher wage to abide, on one explicit condition—that the wage-earner will give full return for the wage received.

Production, More Production.

I want, somehow, to appeal to the sons and daughters of the republic, to every producer, to join hand and brain in production, more production, honest production, patriotic production, because patriotic production is no less a defense of our best civilization than that of armed force. Profiteering is a crime of commission, underproduction is a crime of omission. We must work our most and best, else the destructive reaction will come.

The menacing tendency of the present day is not chargeable wholly to the unsettled and fevered conditions caused by the war. The manifest weakness in popular government lies in the temptation to appeal to grouped citizenship for political advantage.

It would be the blindness of folly to ignore the activities in our own country which are aimed to destroy our economic system, and to commit us to the colossal tragedy which has destroyed all freedom and made Russia impotent. This movement is not to be halted in throttled liberties. We must not abridge the freedom of speech, the freedom of press, or the freedom of assembly, because there is no promise in repression. These liberties are as sacred as the freedom of religious belief, as inviolable as the rights of life and the pursuit of happiness. We do hold to the right to crush sedition, to stifle a menacing contempt for law, to stamp out a peril to the safety of the republic or its people, when emergency calls, because security and the majesty of the law are the first essentials of liberty. He who threatens destruction of the government by force or flaunts his contempt for lawful authority, ceases to be a loyal citizen and forfeits his rights to the freedom of the republic.

No party is indifferent to the welfare of the wage-earner. To us his good fortune is of deepest concern, and we seek to make that good fortune permanent. We do not oppose but approve collective bargaining, because that is an outstanding right, but we are unalterably insistent that its exercise must not destroy the equally sacred right of the individual, in his necessary pursuit of livelihood. Any American has the right to quit his employment, so has every American the right to seek employment. The group must not endanger the individual, and we must discourage groups preying upon one another, and none shall be allowed to forget that the government's obligations are alike to all the people.

No Strike Against Government.

We are so confident that much of the present-day insufficiency and inefficiency of transportation are due to the withering hand of government operation that we emphasize anew our opposition to government ownership, we want to expedite the reparation and make sure the mistake is not repeated.

A state of inadequate transportation facilities, mainly chargeable to the failure of governmental experiment, is losing millions to agriculture, it is hindering industry, it is menacing the American people with a fuel shortage little less than a peril. It emphasizes the present-day problem and suggests that spirit of encouragement and assistance which commits all America to relieve such an emergency.

Gross expansion of currency and credit have depreciated the dollar just as expansion and inflation have discredited the coins of the world. We inflated in haste, we must deflate in deliberation. We debased the dollar in reckless finance, we must restore in honesty.

In all sincerity we promise the prevention of unreasonable profits, we challenge profiteering with all the moral force and the legal powers of government and people, but it is fair, aye, it is timely, to give reminder that law is not the sole corrective of our economic ills.

Drive Against Extravagance.

Let us call to all the people for thrift and economy, for denial and sacrifice if need be, for a nation-wide drive against extravagance and luxury, to a recommittal to simplicity of living, to that prudent and normal plan of life which is the health of the republic.

New conditions, which attend amazing growth and extraordinary industrial development, call for a new and forward-looking program. The American farmer had a hundred and twenty millions to feed in the home market, and heard the cry of the world for food and answered it, though he faced an appalling task amid handicaps never encountered before.

Contemplating the defenselessness of the individual farmer to meet the organized buyers of his products and the distributors of the things the farmer buys, I hold that farmers should not only be permitted but encouraged to join in co-operative association to reap the just measure of reward merited by their arduous toil.

Our platform is an earnest pledge of renewed concern for this most essential and elemental industry and in both appreciation and interest we pledge effective expression in law and practice. We will hail that co-operation which again will make profitable and desirable the ownership and operation of comparatively small farms intensively cultivated, and which will facilitate the caring for the products of farm and orchard without the lamentable waste under present conditions.

America would look with anxiety on the discouragement of farming activity either through the government's neglect or its paralysis by socialistic practices. A Republican administration will be committed to renewed regard for agriculture, and seek the participation of farmers in curing the ills justly complained of, and aim to place the American farm where it ought to be—highly ranked in American activities and fully sharing the highest good fortunes of American life.

Becomingly associated with this subject are the policies of irrigation and reclamation, so essential to agricultural expansion, and the continued development of the great and wonderful West. It is our purpose to continue and enlarge federal aid, not in sectional partiality, but for the good of all America.

I believe the budget system will effect a necessary, helpful reformation, and reveal business methods to government business.

I believe federal departments should be made more business-like and send back to productive effort thousands of federal employees, who are either duplicating work or not essential at all.

I believe in the protective tariff policy and know we will be calling for its saving Americanism again.

I believe in a great merchant marine. I would have this republic the leading maritime nation of the world.

I believe in a navy ample to protect it, and able to assure us dependable defense.

I believe in a small army, but the best in the world, with a mindfulness for preparedness which will avoid the unutterable cost of our previous neglect.

I believe in our eminence in trade abroad, which the government should aid in expanding, both in revealing markets and speeding cargoes.

I believe in establishing standards for immigration, which are concerned with the future citizenship of the republic, not with mere man-power in industry.

I believe that every man who dons the garb of American citizenship and walks in the light of American opportunity, must become American in heart and soul.

I believe in holding fast to every forward step in unshackling child labor and elevating conditions of woman's employment.

I believe the federal government should stamp out lynching and remove that stain from the fair name of America.

I believe the federal government should give its effective aid in solving the problem of ample and becoming housing of its citizenship.

I believe this government should make its Liberty and Victory bonds worth all that its patriotic citizens paid in purchasing them.

Taxes Must Be Reduced.

I believe the tax burdens imposed for the war emergency must be revised to the needs of peace, and in the interest of equity in distribution of the burden.

I believe the negro citizens of America should be guaranteed the enjoyment of all their rights, that they have earned the full measure of citizenship bestowed, that their sacrifices in blood on the battlefields of the republic have entitled them to all of freedom and opportunity, all of sympathy and aid that the American spirit of fairness and justice demands.

I believe there is an easy and open path to righteous relationship with Mexico. It has seemed to me that our undeveloped, uncertain and infirm policy has made us a culpable party to the governmental misfortunes in that land. Our relations ought to be both friendly and sympathetic; we would like to acclaim a stable government there, and offer a neighborly hand in pointing the way to greater progress.

I believe in law enforcement. If elected I mean to be a constitutional president, and it is impossible to ignore the constitution, unthinkable to evade the law, when our every committal is to orderly government.

The four million defenders on land and sea were worthy of the best traditions of a people never war-like in peace and never pacifist in war. They commanded our pride, they have our gratitude, which must have genuine expression. It is not only a duty, it is a privilege to see that the sacrifices made shall be requitted, and that those still suffering from casualties and disabilities shall be abundantly aided and restored to the highest capabilities of citizenship and its enjoyment.

Advocates Woman Suffrage.

The womanhood of America, always its glory, its inspiration and the potent, uplifting force in its social and spiritual development, is about to be enfranchised. In so far as congress can go, the fact is already accomplished. By party edict, by my recorded vote, by personal conviction I am committed to this measure of justice. It is my earnest hope, my sincere desire that the one needed state vote be quickly recorded in the affirmation of the right of equal suffrage and that the vote of every citizen shall be cast and counted in the approaching election.

And to the great number of noble women who have opposed in conviction this tremendous change in the ancient relation of the sexes as applied to government, I venture to plead that they will accept the full responsibility of enlarged citizenship and give to the best in the republic their suffrage and support.

Ours is not only a fortunate people but a very common-sensical people, with vision high but their feet on the earth, with belief in themselves and faith in God. Whether enemies threaten from without or menaces arise from within, there is some indefinable voice saying, "Have confidence in the republic! America will go on!"

SALIENT POINTS OF SENATOR HARDING'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

- "I pledge fidelity to our country and to God, and accept the nomination of the Republican party for the presidency of the United States."
- "The human element comes first, and I want the employers in industry to understand the aspirations, the convictions, the yearnings of millions of American wage earners."
- "The Constitution contemplates no class and recognizes no group. It broadly includes all the people, with specific recognition for none."
- "We approve collective bargaining."
- "Gross expansion of currency and credits has depreciated the dollar. We will attempt intelligent and courageous deflation."
- "When competition—natural, fair impelling competition—is suppressed, whether by law, compact or conspiracy, we halt the march of progress, silence the voice of aspiration and paralyze the will for achievement."
- "I promise you formal and effective peace so quickly as a Republican Congress can pass its declaration for a Republican executive to sign."
- "I can hear the call of conscience an insistent voice for largely reduced armaments throughout the world."
- "Our vision includes more than a chief executive. We believe in a cabinet of highest capacity, equal to the responsibilities which our system contemplates, in whose councils the vice-president, second official of the Republic, shall be asked to participate."

IN "CHURCH" WITHOUT ROOF SALVATIONISTS PREACH TO MORE THAN 18,000,000 YEARLY

A few of the 18,000,000 persons who attend Salvation Army outdoor meetings each year. (Insert) A penitent at the "Mercy Seat."

More than eighteen million men and women make up the congregations that attend in a single year the street meetings of the Salvation Army in this country. Six millions of these, according to conservative estimate, would never hear the gospel preached but for the practice of the Salvationists of taking the church to the people.

That practice was not an easy one to start. Between the rough-house methods of rowdies who tried to break up even their indoor services in the early days and the unwillingness of the police at first to permit the holding of street meetings the Salvationists had a strenuous time of it.

But they persisted, and the Army with the bass drum and the tambourine has kept marching on. When its officers were not preaching they were establishing hospitals, nurseries, rescue homes and institutions of all kinds for the aid of the poor and were giving themselves in unselfish service.

For forty years they financed their humanitarian efforts with the pennies, nickels and dimes collected by bimbonneted lassies in their tambourines. Then the lassies laid the tambourines aside to serve doughnuts and home cheer to Uncle Sam's boys over in France, and they suddenly awakened a public interest that made it unnecessary for the Army to depend any longer for its existence on tambourine collections.

Under the new dispensation the Salvationists present annually to the country a budget of their financial needs. To maintain their homes, their activities for children, for down-and-nearly-out men and women, for the sick and poverty stricken, they will require $10,000,000 in 1920. Their appeal for this amount will be made between May 10 and 20.

JOE RYAN

Joe Ryan won the prize for riding Dynamite, a bucking steer belonging to a wild west show playing in Denver, and on top of that received an offer to go into pictures as a cowboy. Thus filmland secured a new type of bad man. He couldn't help playing a bad man for he was born at the foot of Devil's Tower in Crook County, Wyo. He has lived up to the name of his natal county, playing the vicious but rather likable villain. Joe Ryan is now at work on a serial in which he will appear as both hero and villain.

HOME OF DEALY SCORPION

Region in Mexico That Is Avoided by Travelers for a Most Excellent Reason.

Revolutionary bands and brigands may ride up and down Mexico, but there is one strip of territory that even the hardiest and most daring of them will not brave. It is a desert country that extends from a point near the city of Durango to the borders of the state of Zacatecas, about seventy-five miles long by fifty miles wide. It is asserted that myriads of scorpions infest this region and are the most deadly of the species.

In the city of Durango, although regarded as outside of the more deadly zone, the death rate, due to scorpion stings, is high. This is especially true as to children. The alacrane, as the insect is commonly called, is regarded as such a deadly pest that for many years the municipal government has paid a bounty of one centavo, equivalent to about one-half cent of American money, for each one killed and delivered to the official custodian of dead scorpions. Something like 100,000 of the scorpions are killed and bounty paid for them annually.

Killing scorpions is a regular industry with many men, women and children of Durango. One is told that some of the natives even go so far as to establish regular colonies of the poisonous insects in their homes for the purpose of breeding them for the market.

Although in his career he has climbed to the swaying tops of "skinny" flag poles and has worked at dizzy heights on church spires; the tops of oil derricks and skyscraper buildings holding no terrors for him, when it came to working in the top of a cherry tree—that was too much for Sam Finger, painter and contractor. He fell to the ground and alighted, it is said, with a "dull sickening thud," sustaining a severely wrenched right wrist. He is now carrying the arm in a sling, his hand being swelled up "like a poisoned toad." The accident happened on his farm near Smethport He was in the topmost part of the tree and had just shouted to members of his family below that he would shake the tree and the cherries would fall—but Sam was the only thing to fall. He came to consciousness an hour later with a physician working over him.

NEIGHBORS

A big town offers advantages. There are unusual facilities for spending money, impressive buildings to suggest man's importance and show houses where one may be entertained, at a price, by experts in the entertaining business. There are smooth streets to encourage the consumption of gasoline and smooth promoters to encourage the cutting of eyeteeth. There are pedestrians wearing the latest styles and newspapers, chuckling over the latest scandals.

But there are no neighbors. In a city a good neighborhood is a part of town inhabited by people who have plenty of spending money. In a small town a good neighborhood is one inhabited by people who make good neighbors.

A good neighbor is one who bids you good morning, calls to ask what he can do when you are sick, borrows your garden tools, keeps his chickens and children at home, never plays his phonograph after 10 o'clock at night and takes a mild interest in all of your affairs. He calls you Tom if you happen to be a Tom and feels free to enter your house by the kitchen door if that is the more convenient way. Are there any such in great cities?

When the wife bakes and has unusually good luck the best loaf goes to the neighbor. It expresses friendship and her commendable pride in good craftsmanship. After a few days the loaf returns in the form of a cherry pie, hot from the oven, or a bowl of dumplings cooked in the homemade blackberry wine left from the boiling of a ham. If one of the children cuts a finger, the neighbor has iodine. He offers it freely, for tomorrow night he may forget to bring home a can of tobacco.

Small-town people are one big family. If their mode of life makes secrets impossible, it also lessens the number of things that should be kept secret; and their interest in one another—an interest that might be very annoying o a big-town man—is inspired by kindness rather than curiosity.

The man who asked "Who is my neighbor?" was not a small-town man, else he would have known.—G. B. Post.
